Wulong Three Natural Bridges is perhaps one of the most famous and attractive scenic spots in Wulong. Famous well before the Transformers movies filmed a short sequence here, but this scenic spot has become more famous in recent years as more and more foreigners make their way to this unbelievable sight. Local movies have also been filmed here, such as the Curse of the Golden Flower and the Three Natural Bridges is also a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

Fairy Mountain. Known as the Switzerland of the Orient, the 2,033 m (6,669 ft) high mountain attracts visitors throughout the year to breathe fresh air, paraglide, fly kites, or try horse riding. In the winter, a blanket of ice and snow covers the area, creating a magical ambiance, with plenty of skiers coming to enjoy snow activities. See turquoise rivers, jagged canyons, and powerful mountain waterfalls.

Jindo (Golden Buddha) Mountain is located at 30 degrees north latitude near the city in Chongqing Nanchuan District, north big Lou mountains, an area of 1300 square kilometers, scenic area of 441 square kilometers, the highest elevation 2238 meters, the forest coverage rate reached more than 95%, there is a "natural plant museum", known as "Oriental the Alps".

"Baodingshan Rock Carvings was constructed by the famous monk Zhao Zhifeng in the Song Dynasty for more than 70 years. As one of the most famous Tantric Buddhist shrines in China, there is an old saying that goes like "Go North, climb the Emei Mountain; Go South, reach the Baoding Mountain." Like a picture scroll with endless photographs, the content of Baodingshan rock carvings is mainly Buddhist scripture stories, each niche related to the other but not identical.

Chongqing Yangtze River Cableway, one of the fewest of its kind, is a cable car stretching across the Yangtze River that runs through the city. Whisking visitors high in the sky across the mountain metropolis, it is a symbol of the city, an inspiration for filmmakers and a must-do in Chongqing.
